

Andy Moses is an artist who lives and works in Venice, California. He was born in Los Angeles in 1962 and attended California Institute of the Arts from 1979 to 1982. At CalArts he focused on performance, film, and painting, studying with Michael Asher, John Baldessari, and Douglas Huebler. In 1982 he moved to New York, where he developed a new kind of process painting that is simultaneously abstract and representational. He is interested in pushing the physical properties of paint through chemical reactions, viscosity interference, and gravity to create elaborate compositions that mimic nature and its forces. He had his first solo show in New York at Annina Nosei Gallery in 1987 and has continued to exhibit his work in New York, Los Angeles, and abroad over the past twenty-five years. He moved back to Los Angeles in 2000 where he continues to refine and expand the vocabulary of his specific painting processes, imagery, and interrelationships with the technical and natural world.
