Statement

I start to work by getting an idea from art history, films, subculture and so on.

I express what feels familiar to me and the feelings I long for, or love-hate relationships, in which I am really interested, by quoting the original image from which I got the idea.

Through my work, I yearn for Pop Art and I have sympathy for “appropriation art”. In my works, I use popular elements which, I think, introduce an element of familiarity for the viewer.
