

Anne Françoise Couloumy

Anne Françoise Couloumy was born in Paris in 1961.

Since her childhood she has developed a great interest and talent for drawings, which led her to enter the School National Superior of Decorative Arts of Paris where she studied oil painting and earned diploma.

Since the 90s she exhibited regularly at art galleries in Paris, Germany and America. She also participated in the prestigious international art fairs in Europe and America. She was awarded the Order of Arts and Letters in 2007.

"My paintings are composed and structured by setting visual course created by light in the space of room with the existence of invisible people.

However the existence of invisible people leave a trace people have passed by with the feeling the existence of the invisible people can touch.

I give the live feeling or trace to the story and soul peculiar to the place by following carefully the very moment or after people just have passed by with a brush at a first sight the space with nothing-but never empty.

As a result people can find a live appearance in the density of air existing between things—never dividing the existence, but binding together." Anne Françoise Coloumy
