AA RISING STAR PROJECT

Every year, thousands of young people with artistic talent and dreams attend art schools, yet only 10% continue to pursue art professionally after graduation.

Accidental Art, as the rising art platform in Hong Kong, is now offering an exceptional program. The AA Rising Star Project aims to help promising young art students gain more exposure and prepare them for long-term opportunities in the industry.

The program will allow young artists to share their ideas and creations through specially curated exhibitions, promoting their work to a global network of art enthusiasts and influencers and providing them with opportunities to launch commercial products to further support their artistic passions.
